OUTLOOK:

 A FIRE WEATHER WATCH HAS BEEN REPORTED IN WESTERN AND CENTRAL UTAH FOR STRONG WINDS AND LOW RELATIVE HUMIDITY ***

An upper level trough over the Pacific Northwest with a strong dry southwest flow over the Great Basin will bring widely scattered thunderstorms over the area with some dry thunderstorms in Utah. High temperatures will be 75 to 85 in the mountains and mostly 80 to 90 elsewhere. Minimum relative humidity will range from 15 to 30 percent, except for 5 to 15 percent in western and central Utah. Winds will be south to southwest gusting up to 40 to 50 mph over western and central Utah. Elsewhere winds will be south to west at 10 to 20 mph.

An upper level trough is intensifying over the Pacific Northwest with cooler and damper marine air filtering into the area. This will bring mostly cloudy skies west of the Cascades and partly cloudy north to sunny south on the east side. Showers and light rain will develop over western Washington. High temperatures will be in the 60's and 70's in western Washington and northwest Oregon, 70's to lower 80's in interior Oregon and east of the Cascades. Minimum relative humidity will range above 50 percent in western Washington and northwest Oregon, otherwise it will be 18 to 28 percent. Wind will be breezy east of the Cascades with gusts up to 30 mph in some areas.
