Predictive Services Discussion: A secondary front will drop south into the Northern Rockies from Alberta bringing scattered, wet, strong storms to Montana, Idaho, and Wyoming. A cool, dry, but gusty northerly flow will develop over the Great Basin and will lead to critical conditions across southern Utah and southern Nevada. The monsoonal surge of moisture over the southwest will begin to move further east into New Mexico, Colorado, and West Texas while diminishing across Arizona. A strong ridge of high pressure will begin to strengthen off the coast of the Pacific Northwest and northern California. The offshore winds across northwestern California will begin to weaken in the afternoon as the ridge extends its reach into the state. In the East, expect another day of scattered storms as a weak frontal boundary stalls along the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

Unburned Fuel Between You And The Fire

Operational Engagement Category

It is important for firefighters to recognize unburned fuel between themselves and the fire as Watchout Situation #11. Often it is not possible or practical for direct attack on a fire. Before attempting indirect attack and any time the firefighter is in a position where there is unburned fuel between them and the fire, the following questions must be addressed immediately:

- Can you see the fire or are you in contact with someone who can? Discuss situations you might find yourself in where you are out in the green and cannot see the fire. What can you do?
- Is fire spread in a direction away from you? Do you consider the potential for fire spread? Are you safe if the wind switches?
- Will your position be defensible when the fire reaches you? Talk about what must be taken into account when building indirect line or approaching a fire through the green.
- Is your line anchored? Discuss how you anchor indirect line.
- Are your escape routes and safety zones adequate? What is adequate?
- Are weather indicators constantly changing?
- To reduce the risks:
 - Post lookouts.
 - Consider a different location. Review situations where you constructed indirect line or approached a fire through the green and how you provided for your safety.
