Incident Management Situation Report
Monday, June 7, 2021– 0730 MDT
National Preparedness Level 2

National Fire Activity:

Initial attack activity:	Light (139 fires)
New large incidents:	3
Large fires contained:	1
Uncontained large fires: 	13
Area Command teams committed:	0
Type 1 IMTs committed:	1
Type 2 IMTs committed:	3

Nationally, there are 7 fires being managed under a strategy other than full suppression.

***Uncontained large fires include only fires being managed under a full suppression strategy.

Predictive Services Discussion: An upper low will move over southern California while upper-level troughing deepens off the West Coast today. Gusty west-southwest winds will develop over eastern California, the Great Basin, and into the Southwest amid low relative humidity resulting in elevated and critical fire weather conditions. Above average temperatures will continue across the northern Plains through the Great Lakes into the Northeast. Thunderstorms remain possible over much of the central and eastern US with severe weather possible across portions of the northern Plains and Texas.

Proper Use of Trigger Points

Weather – Fire Behavior Category

Accurate situation awareness (SA) requires a constant reassessment of conditions (existing and potential) that may impact the safety and effectiveness of tactics. Monitor for the 18 Watch Out Situations and establish trigger points (in the form of operational or environmental limits) ahead of time.

Remember, trigger points are not decision-makers but serve as predetermined cues to prompt you to re-evaluate the current and potential situation and its associated risks. They help you to determine and implement the proper course of action.

The following items are considerations in your planning and discussion.

- Use trigger points for preplanning. Do not wait until you are in the wrong place at the wrong time – with no time.
- Trigger points should be based on measurable factors such as:
  - Relative Humidity (RH).
  - Winds.
  - Fire behavior.
  - Topographical boundaries.
  - Time constraints/time of day.
  - Time/distance to safety zones.
  - Loss of suppression resources.
  - Other operational considerations (e.g., firefighter fatigue, loss of lookouts or communication, weather change).
- As you approach predetermined trigger points, go through the Risk Management Process to help you decide if a change in tactics is required:
  - Identify hazards.
  - Assess hazards.
  - Develop controls and make risk decisions.
  - Implement controls.
  - Supervise and evaluate.
- Consider the following command/leadership responsibilities when changing tactics:
  - Communicate the changes to your subordinates, as well as to adjacent forces and up the chain of command.
  - Account for all your people.
  - Make sure everyone knows and follows the new plan.
