

Incident Management Situation Report
Tuesday, October 7, 2025 – 0730 MDT
National Preparedness Level 2

National Fire Activity:

Fire Activity and Teams Assigned	Totals
Initial attack activity:	Light (58 fires)
New large incidents:	1
Large fires contained:	1
Uncontained large fires:	6
CIMTs committed:	3

Nationally, there are zero fires being managed under a strategy other than full suppression.

Fires not managed under a full suppression strategy or fires managed under a full suppression strategy but utilizing a combination of tactics – such as monitoring, confinement or point zone protection – achieve specific fire management objectives while balancing the most effective utilization of resources. Fires managed as described above are identified in the situational report as Comp fires. Additional information including definitions can be found in the NWCG glossary or here.

Cumulative acres shown in the Active Incident Resource Summary Table may not be reflected in the YTD statistics due to a lag in units completing YTD adjustments in the SIT/209 Application. Otherwise, changes in agency YTD fires and acres reflect more accurate mapping or reporting adjustments.

Predictive Services Discussion:

A cold front will move into the southern Plains, Ohio Valley, and Northeast today. Breezy and dry southwest winds will continue ahead of the front in New England, before widespread showers and isolated thunderstorms move in overnight. Widespread showers and scattered thunderstorms will also develop in the Ohio Valley today, where the heaviest rainfall is expected. However, only isolated showers are expected in the southern Plains and into the Southeast. Widespread showers and isolated thunderstorms will also develop in New Mexico today on the tail end of the front. Much of the West will be drier with near normal temperatures, but light winds. Dry air will also spread into much of the northern Plains. A strong storm will affect western Alaska today with widespread precipitation and breezy south winds.
