Tuesday, September 23, 2025 – 0730 MDT
National Preparedness Level 2

National Fire Activity:

Fire Activity and Teams Assigned	Totals
Initial attack activity:	Light (53 fires)
New large incidents:	3
Large fires contained:	1
Uncontained large fires:	35
CIMTs committed:	7

Nationally, there are three fires being managed under a strategy other than full suppression. Zero fires are in Alaska. Three fires are in the Lower 48.

Fires not managed under a full suppression strategy or fires managed under a full suppression strategy but utilizing a combination of tactics – such as monitoring, confinement or point zone protection – achieve specific fire management objectives while balancing the most effective utilization of resources. Fires managed as described above are identified in the situational report as Comp fires. Additional information including definitions can be found in the NWCG glossary or here.

Understanding the IMSR

Predictive Services Discussion:

Locally breezy northeast winds in northern California and southwest Oregon will gradually decrease during the day before returning overnight, but weaker. Minimum relative humidity will be very low at 7-20% and stretch into much of southern Oregon and northwest Nevada with poor overnight recovery below 30% for mid-slopes and ridges. Above normal temperatures will also return to much of the rest of the Northwest and into the northern Rockies, but minimum relative humidity will be higher at 15-30%. Scattered showers and thunderstorms will persist in the central and southern Rockies, generally east of the Divide. An upper-level low off the southern California coast is likely to move closer tonight, with scattered mixed wet and dry thunderstorms for the central coast.

In the eastern US, a cold front will slowly move south and east from the central and southern Plains northeast into the Great Lakes and Northeast. Widespread thunderstorms are expected in the Mid-Mississippi and Lower Ohio Valleys, with more scattered showers and thunderstorms elsewhere. In the Northeast, portions of northern New England may receive little precipitation. The Southeast is likely to remain dry, but minimum relative humidity will remain generally above 40%, while isolated thunderstorms return to Florida.
