Predictive Services Update

Weather Summary (Jim Wallmann)

WEATHER SUMMARY

Short-term (through Friday)

- Rainfall today across the southern Appalachians and Southeast, with more rain expected late this week to bring relief
- Breezy/dry west winds for the Front Range today bringing locally critical conditions
- Breezy/dry northwest winds for the southern Plains tomorrow and Wednesday, but rainfall over the weekend will mitigate except for Deep South Texas which remained dry, where critical conditions are possible Wednesday
- Drier in the West, with well above normal temperatures and low RH in southern California tomorrow through Friday although winds overall will be light
- Another moderate to strong atmospheric river will make landfall in Washington Friday

Long-term (Saturday through next Wednesday)

- The atmospheric river continues Saturday in Washington, with lighter precipitation for western Oregon and the northern Rockies
- Continued very warm and dry for southern California into Arizona into mid-next week, but winds will remain light
- A drier pattern in the eastern US, with a dry cold front passage early to mid next week likely in the Southern Area bringing breezy/dry northwest winds behind the front

Meeting Schedule

Discontinue secondary NMAC Briefing invites on Mondays.

PSOG Update

Award nomination process will be sent out this week.

Nominations will be submitted to NMAC representatives.

In-person meeting January 12-15 at Southern Nevada District Office.

Government Shutdown

Some agencies will be able to keep employees in exempt status through November.

Other agencies will look at employee status changes next week.

Continuing trainings and RX is being discussed.

IMSR Prioritization

Posing a draft tasking to rearrange the GA prioritization on the IMSR.

Potential for adding a statement on the top outlining IMSR order does not dictate resource allocation priorities.

Suggest IMSR prioritization process or better educating the field regarding what the IMSR outlines.

NICC PS will work on a Briefing Paper outlining prioritization.

NMAC AAR

Send all topics to Sean P for compilation.
